

APPLICATION MANAGEMENT SERVICES

Optimising performance and delivering operational efficiencies

As today’s enterprises become increasingly reliant upon IT and software to drive and support growth, they face a growing challenge in maintaining their application estate. All too often companies can become bloated by application excess and entangled in complex application maintenance and upgrade cycles. This can result in costly application maintenance, staffing, performance problems and monitoring, and knock on negative effects on meeting SLAs.

Advanced application management services

Our Microsoft Application Management Services cover application portfolio management, application discovery, and application rationalisation. These services are designed to take a holistic view of your estate from the point of your overall business need.

By managing and optimising your business applications and workload health using tools such as Microsoft System Center and Windows Intune, we can deliver deeper insight and control of your applications regardless of whether .NET or Java based.

Better portfolio management, on premise and in the cloud

The main aim of our application management services is to increase the value of your portfolio over time in terms of business benefit versus overall cost. Our expert consultants enable our clients to better understand the makeup of their application portfolio. This helps them to make more informed decisions on how to manage their estate moving forward by providing these reports:

Whether your applications reside on a private onsite server, Microsoft Azure cloud environment, or a hybrid mix, we can ensure that your application portfolio is running efficiently, and that your applications are responsive and available to users when and where they are needed most.
