Reach: National

London - Paris, October 9, 2008 - Sogeti, one of the world's foremost providers of Local IT, Professional and Test services, today announced the acquisition of the UK test consultancy Vizuri Limited.

This acquisition, in conjunction with the acquisition of Insight Test Services in April 2008 and other recruitment plans, will result in Sogeti UK growing to 250 staff by the end of 2009, establishing its position as a major player in the UK Testing Services Market.

Vizuri is one of the UK's leading specialist software Quality Assurance, Test, and Security Consultancy service providers. With a staff of 90 persons, the UK company offers Consulting, Managed Services, Training and Resourcing services in these specific areas to over 50 clients. Like Sogeti, the company has a local branch business model offering fast, flexible, high value services to clients across the UK.

Sogeti, a member of the Capgemini Group, is a global leader in the provision of Local IT Professional Services and employs in excess of 20,000 people delivering services in High Tech Consulting, Application Services / Systems Integration and Infrastructure Services. Globally, Sogeti is the market leader in Software QA & Test services with in excess of 2,500 testing specialists of which 2,000 in Europe and USA and 500 people in India, which represents a strong offshore investment.

In addition, there are 5,000 application specialists with relevant test experiences. Sogeti is the owner, developer and distributor of the world leading test methods

TMAP® (Test Management Approach) and TPI® (Test Process Improvement). Sogeti offers significant value in onshore-and offshore services in the testing arena.

"This acquisition reinforces the European leadership of Sogeti in IT local services by consolidating its activities in one of the major markets - the United Kingdom", said Luc-François Salvador, Chairman of the Sogeti Group. Added Richard Terry, Managing Director of Sogeti UK: "We believe that through the acquisition of Vizuri, we will immediately be able to provide a broader, deeper range of services to all of our clients. Further, the combined organisation gives us the critical mass to accelerate the growth of the business to achieve a market leadership position. This will make us more attractive to our current and future clients and as an employer." Brian Shea, CEO of Vizuri believes that: "When combining the customers and staff of Vizuri with the strength of Sogeti we will create a company that will provide true innovative market leadership in the UK. We will leverage the strengths of both to deliver many benefits to clients and staff. This is a very exciting time in our market and this new entity will be uniquely positioned to deliver real client benefit for years to come."

As illustrated by this deal, Capgemini Group - through Sogeti in this case - continues to expand notably through focused and disciplined acquisitions of firms with strong entrepreneurial spirit; domain or technological expertise; and client intimacy.
