Proven Expertise: Capgemini Group helps leading energy firm improve user-productivity with an end-to-end PLM implementation

Challenge and Approach: The client's legacy product data management system had crossed the end-of-life duration and resided on outdated infrastructure, inhibiting expansion or accommodation of new business needs and hindering collaboration across geographies. We deployed a next generation PLM solution that maintained business process continuity and existing capability, while also providing a platform compliant for growth and future business needs. The process steps included:

- Enovia platform upgrade from Ematrix 10.6 version to Enovia 2013x
- Schema re-maps and re-designs as per 2013x to suit the business needs and allow future enhancements
- Data migration from the Ematrix 10.6 system to the new Enovia system

Results: The client recorded an improvement in end-user productivity while also being able to consolidate up to 8,600,000 objects spread across 13 vaults in Ematrix to a single vault in Enovia system. More than 600 file stores were consolidated in two stores with absolutely no loss of records during the transfer process.
